THE FACTS ABOUT SULLINS COLLEGE

The following self-explanatory letter is being sent to each patron of Sullins College:

December 18, 1909.

Knowing that you would be interested in hearing just what the situation is here at the college we are getting out today this printed statement that a copy may be mailed to each one of the girls. All told, we have had only nine cases of fever, and this of the mildest form. We are glad to state that all of them are today entirely clear of fever except the one who was last taken sick and who has some temperature yet. She is doing finely, however, and all of the girls will soon be up and enjoying Christmas. The rest of us at the college have kept well and we anticipate no further trouble. The state health officer from Richmond has come to Bristol, and with our local health board has gone over our buildings and assures us there is absolutely no local cause for fever about the college. About twenty cases of fever have recently developed in Bristol, in addition to those in the college. In every case hydrant water was being used. This led to the conviction that the trouble is in the water supply. A very thorough analysis of the city water is now in progress and today's report further confirms this view. During the excessive dry weather the city has been using water from an artesian well as an auxiliary to our main supply. Analysis condemns this well as the source of the trouble. The members of the city council are now at work on this problem and this condemned well will be cut out of our supply. The difficulty will be removed at once. We are much relieved that the cause of our fever has been found and as a measure of double precaution we have determined to have all of the drinking water at the college boiled and led for the remainder of the session. The doctors tell us this will give absolute safety. This will be rather welcomed news for the girls, we are sure, since they like ice water anyway. With only two exceptions, all of the girls from whom we have heard are coming back for the new term and you will thus be glad to know that our session will not meet with any serious interruption. We expect to meet every train on Monday, January 3, and we hope all of the girls will return promptly, as they will certainly have had a good long rest. We hope Santa Claus will be kind to every one of you, and that you will have a very happy Christmas.

Sincerely your friends,
W. E. MARTIN,
W. S. NEIGHBORS.

GORE-HAYWARD

One of the most distinguished and fashionable weddings of the season was solemnized at St. John's Episcopal church, Tuesday, December 16, by Dr. W. H. Osborne, rector of the church, when Miss Helen Hayward became the bride of Benjamin Stone Gore. The church was decorated with ferns and palms, while the altar was in ferns and potted plants and pink carnations, with groups of candles gleaming like the radiance of stars. Miss Ola Neal presided at the organ, with Mrs. Samuel Millard as violinist, before the bridal party arrived. First to enter was the vested choir, singing "Oh, Perfect Love." Then the bridal chorus, heralded the wedding party. As the doors were opened the four ushers, Messrs. Stone and Morris, Mall and Barlow, came down the middle aisles to the altar. The matron of honor, Mrs. Samuel Sells, sister of the bride, entered alone, wearing a gown of pink duchesse satin, and carrying a shower bouquet of roses. The bride entered on the arm of her brother, Samuel R. Sells. She was attired in a white gown of rich duchesse satin, with elaborate trimmings of duchesse point lace. Her tulle veil was held in place by a coronal of orange blossoms; the bouquet was brides roses, with lilies of the valley streamers. At the chancel the bride was met by the groom, entering from the vestry on the arm of his best man, Mr. Burks, and the impressive betrothal service was read by the rector. The wedding party left the church to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march. The bride is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hayward, and comes of old and distinguished ancestry from whom she inherits many fine qualities of head and heart. The groom is a prominent young lawyer.

Following the marriage a reception was tendered the bridal party by senator and Mrs. S. R. Sells at their Watauga avenue home. Mr. and Mrs. Gore were driven to their new home that evening and began the voyage over the matrimonial sea and they have many friends who hope it will be a long and peaceful journey.

Store

In selecting a Christmas Gift let it be more than a passing token. Let it be a lasting evidence of the sentiment conveyed. We are wonderfully prepared to serve you, for this immense store is just teeming with the most acceptable gifts conceivable. Articles of utility, which will be a pleasure to possess for years to come. Christmas Peckers that provide most pleasure both to the giver and to the recipient. In the first place only reliable, well seasoned woods are used in their construction, then to, these rockers are built very strongly so that they are safe in use and long in service and the design a choice variety of new ones. Elegantly simple and richly artistic patterns combined with comfort giving shapes and purse pleasing prices. Hundreds of other pieces of furniture that are appropriate for Christmas gifts.

This pretty dining table is made of solid oak, hand polished. It has a round circular top with deep rim, massive carved feet supporting round turned pedestal of dependable manufacture throughout. A value impossible to duplicate elsewhere.

A few sections of the Globe Wrenkile Book Cases would be appreciated. The sectional Book Cases have more advantages over the ordinary book cases because they fit any space or any library, whether comprising 20 books or 1000. A three-section book case makes a nice start and can, of course, be added to as the books increase.
